FRANK A. LYNCH TO SEEK PLACE IN CITY COUNCIL

At-Large Position Beckons Businessman; Marion and Neuding Not to Run

SEVERAL CHANGES LOOM

Decision of Hedges, Former Mayor Is Awaited

Frank A. Lynch, one of Circleville's business and civic leaders, has entered the primary race for a position in council. He has filed his petition with the board of elections for a councilman-at-large job. Mr. Lynch, a Democrat, has never before sought public office. His announcement is the first of several expected to be made prior to the filing deadline Friday at 6:30 p.m.

Several changes are probable in the next council, which will be elected in August and take its place Jan. 1.

Marion, Neuding Out

Frank A. Marion and E. S. Neuding, councilmen-at-large, will not seek re-election. Marion is an active candidate for the justice of peace job held by Harold O. Evelyn, while Neuding will not run because of much church work and the press of his business. He was appointed recently to fill the unexpired term of W. Frank Baker, who died during his tenure of office. He had previously served for several terms as a councilman-at-large.

Ward Officials Run

All of the ward councilmen, John C. Goeller, president, and Ben H. Gordon, councilman-at-large, will be in the race. The ward officials are: C. O. Leist, first; J. H. Helwagen, second; Harry Steinhauer, third, and T. M. Barnes, fourth.

The decision of former Mayor B. T. Hedges is awaited with interest. It is understood the Republican leader may run for justice of peace, or he may ask the nomination for mayor against W. J. Graham.

Democrats in the mayoralty contest are W. B. Cady, Adrian Yates and Boyd Horn.

Slot Devices Smashed In Chillicothe 'War'

CHILICOTHE, June 10.—Chillicothe slot machine men have declared "war" on a Columbus syndicate with a "machine smashing" campaign.

Three local men, Carl A. Hirn, Albert "Dutch" Oberer and Joe Stein, contended that so long as slot machines were tolerated in Chillicothe they intend to have their own machines in operation. They ask that the city be open to all operators. They resent discrimination against local men in favor of a Columbus concern.

Hirn admitted he had smashed up some machines with sledge hammers and said so long as the campaign against locally operated machines continued, his "smashing campaign" would go on. He explained that Chillicothe men pay taxes and spend their money in Chillicothe.

Death of the lovely, blonde star had reunited these three into a family council, although the mother, Mrs. Jean Bello, was divorced from both men.

Dr. M. C. Carpenter, Kansas City dentist who was Miss Harlow's father, came here by airplane for the funeral. Marino Bello was Miss Harlow's stepfather until he, too, was divorced by the mother a year ago.

Paint Street in Demand

Hirn said he had been informed that certain city officials had declared the trio could not operate on Paint street, a sensitive spot. His sledge hammer campaign resulted.

Reporters were unable to contact Mayor James E. Ford for his reaction to the slot machine trouble. His clerk said that when the mayor left he said he would "be gone for several months."

Rev. A. J. Kestle, president of the Ross County Citizenship League, which seeks to oust Mayor Ford for failure to ban slot machines, was amused to hear of the machines being smashed. He termed the sledge-hammer wielder as a "man after my own heart."

Merchants in Quandary

Store owners where slot machines are placed were in a quandary to know what they might do in case a "machine smasher" appears. The machines are "contraband" and it appeared unlikely destruction of property charges will be filed. Various charges like disorderly conduct, disturbing the peace and trespassing might be preferred, but they feared the publicity that would follow.

Two new developments in the fight over President Roosevelt's judiciary reorganization program today centered attention on a compromise proposed by Sen. Charles O. Andrews, D. Fla.

The new factors in the controversy were:

1. Andrews conferred with President Roosevelt and later announced that he would introduce a substitute for the administration plan to add five justices to the tribunal.

2. Justice department officials were reported drafting a substitute drastically modifying the original measure.

Andrews did not deny that the department was working with him in preparing a compromise which the administration may seek to salvage from the attack on the program.

TWO ABANDONED CHILDREN FOUND IN BOX IN FIELD

BUFFALO, N. Y., June 10.—(UP)—Two baby girls, apparently twins about two weeks old, were found abandoned today in a cardboard box near suburban Clarence.

They were brought to a Buffalo hospital for treatment.

Physicians said their condition was critical. They apparently had been in the box throughout the cold, rainy night.

The babies were found in a field by Mr. and Mrs. Meredith of Clarence when they were awakened by cries.

The babies were neatly dressed. In the box with them was a bottle of milk.

State police were called in to investigate.

She was attending the coronation of King George VI when Harry Cohn of Columbia Pictures telephoned an offer to star her in the picture "Second Mrs. Draper."

Miss Swanson, now 39, began her film career in the old Essanay studios.

BULLETIN

YOUNGSTOWN, June 10.—(UP)—Unions in sympathy with the steel workers' organizing committee talked today of attempting to call a general strike in Youngstown if Sheriff Ralph E. Elser persists in "using tear gas against innocent workmen."

CLEVELAND, June 10.—(UP)—Governors of two states intervened in the steel strike today, hoping to avert further violence and eventually to restore peace.

Gov. Frank Murphy of Michigan succeeded in postponing a matching of strength between the Republic Steel corporation and the Committee for Industrial Organization at the gates of a steel mill in Monroe, Mich. The corporation had been determined to re-open its subsidiary plant there this morning; the committee's steel union had been equally determined to prevent its re-opening. Both rescinded and will meet with Murphy in Lansing.

To Meet in Columbus

Gov. Martin L. Davey of Ohio summoned union leaders and top executives of Republic and the Youngstown Sheet and Tube company to a conference in Columbus tomorrow.

But while these developments calmed the seven-state steel strike, a riot was flaring in Youngstown, the second in 24 hours.

Five hundred pickets and sympathizers took part in the Youngstown riot early today. They were dispersed by tear gas.

Two policemen were severely beaten and one man was shot. The riot followed the entrance into Republic Steel corporation's mill of a truck which pickets said was loaded with food.

LONDON HEARS SIMPSON'S SLANDER ACTION SETTLED

LONDON, June 10.—(UP)—The slander suit of Ernest A. Simpson against Mrs. Joan Sutherland has been settled out of court, it was indicated today. The suit is formally scheduled for "mention" in the law courts tomorrow, which probably means a settlement.

The Duchess of Windsor's former husband accused the society woman of saying at a luncheon that he had been "well paid" to free his wife.

AMELIA STARTS LONG TRIP OVER WILDS OF AFRICA

DAKAR, Senegal, June 10.—(UP)—Amelia Earhart, American woman round the world flier, took off today for the African interior.

Her plane refueled and carefully overhauled after her flight across the Atlantic from Brazil, Miss Earhart took off at 11:55 a. m. EST with Fred Noonan, her navigator.

The plane headed eastward for the Niger river valley via Bamako, Timbuctu, Gao and Niamey. From the Niger, Miss Earhart was expected to continue across the continent by way of Fort Lamy, the French army station south of Lake Chad, and thence on to Khartoum in the Anglo-Egyptian Sudan.

A message from Air Minister Pierre Cot, at Paris, had ordered all French desert aviation posts to be on the look out for Miss Earhart and to give her every assistance.

Miss Earhart selected the route directly across Africa despite bad weather conditions which caused her for a time to consider skirting the northern coast of Africa.

STATE HEALTH SETS SEPT. 1 FOR DOG QUARANTINE

Pickaway county's quarantine on dogs, to expire June 15, will be extended until Sept. 1.

All surrounding counties have been placed under similar quarantines. Dogs are not permitted to run at large during the time of the quarantine.

The duchess is getting double instruction, learning both the standard pronunciation of words and the Carinthian dialect which the duke picks up from tradesmen with whom he converses daily.

A stenographer has arrived at the honeymoon castle from the British legation at Vienna, borrowed to aid the duke and duchess in keeping up their correspondence, about 500 telegrams a day have been sent from the castle.

COURT'S RULING DEFEATS GARDEN

Effort to Stop Braddock, Louis Fight Bailed By U. S. Judges

PHILADELPHIA, June 10.—(UP)—The United States circuit court of appeals refused today to grant Madison Square garden an injunction halting the Joe Louis-James J. Braddock heavyweight championship fight.

The court upheld the decision of Federal Judge Guy L. Fike of Newark, N. J., who previously had refused the garden's request.

Circuit Court Judge John J. Biggs, Jr., said in today's opinion that a clause in a previous contract between Braddock, world heavyweight champion, and the garden, which required that he fight his first title defense for the garden, was not effective in view of later contracts.

The fight between Louis and Braddock is scheduled for June 22 in Chicago.

GIRL INJURED AS AUTO AND MULE FIGURE IN CRASH

Miss Margaret Smith, Kingston, received minor cuts on the left arm and bruises Wednesday night when the auto in which she was riding with William R. Steele, 403 S. Scioto street, turned on its side after striking a mule at the south corporation line on Route 23.

Steele was driving north on the highway. The mule was owned by Elmer Carper, Route 4, police reported. The animal was so badly injured that it was shot by Patrolman George Green under instructions of the owner. Steele's car was damaged.

Police, members of the sheriff's department and the state highway patrol answered the accident call. The accident occurred just inside the corporation line.

KLOEB REPORTED CHOSEN FOR JOB AS 'FED' JUDGE

WASHINGTON, June 10.—(UP)—It was reported unofficially today that Congressman Frank L. Klob of Celina, O., would be nominated by President Roosevelt for the Toledo federal judgeship.

The same reports stated that Sen. Robert J. Bulkley had favored Klob's appointment over Frazier Reams of Toledo, who had the endorsement of the Lucas county Democratic committee.

Sen. Bulkley would not confirm reports of the selection, but said he had been in conference yesterday with Assistant Attorney General Joseph B. Keenan.

"Whoever originated the report must have been misinformed," Sen. Bulkley said. "No final conclusion on the matter has been reached."

Rep. Klob also declined to comment.

SCRIBBLED NOTE, HATCHET CLUES IN NEW MYSTERY

Mrs. Alice Parsons, 38, Wife of Wealthy New York Farmer, Gone

POLICE SOUND ALARMS

Gotham's Register Lists Prominent Family

STONY BROOK, N. Y., June 10.—(UP)—With a ransom note and a bloodstained hatchet as clues, federal agents and state and local police bottled up all roads leading from Long Island today in the search for the kidnappers of Mrs. Alice McDonnell Parsons, socially prominent heiress and kin to several wealthy families.

The scores of investigators assigned to the case worked on the theory that the kidnappers who took Mrs. Parsons from her 11-acre estate in this exclusive section before noon yesterday still were somewhere on the island. Nevertheless an eight-state alarm was flashed out as a precautionary measure.

Ransom Note Found

The ransom note, printed with pencil on ruled paper, was found last night tucked into the upholstery of Mrs. Parsons' car in the gravelled yard behind the white colonial-type house. It read:

"Bill Parsons—I have your wife. Bring $25,000 to the Jamaica bus terminal within 24 hours. My man will meet you and call you by name. Do not bring any cops. If you do Alice will never speak to you again."

The blood-stained hatchet was found in the basement of the pretentious home in which Mrs. Parsons lived with her husband, William H. Parsons, heir to a paper fortune.

Anna Kupryanova, said to be a Russian countess and an adopted daughter of Mrs. Parsons, told police that a man and a woman called at the Parsons' estate yesterday morning and that Mrs. Parsons had left with them. Mrs. Kupryanova had understood that they were to take her to the Samuels estate which is near-by.

That was the last seen of Mrs. Parsons. Last night the ransom (Continued on Page Ten.)

Rockefeller's Kin Object of Plot

CHICAGO, June 10.—(UP)—A pretty nurse admitted to Chicago police that her story concerning a kidnap plot involving J. Rockefeller Prentice, kin of the late John D. Rockefeller, was "all made up."

CHICAGO, June 10.—(UP)—John Rockefeller Prentice, Chicago lawyer and grandson of the late John D. Rockefeller, Sr., became suspicious today and spoiled what police called an "amateurish" attempt to draw ransom from the oil magnate's millions.

Two men abducted a pretty young nurse friend of Prentice and instructed her to deliver a message to him on pain of death. The message would have brought Prentice to a rendezvous, where, police believed, he would have been kidnapped.

"Lived in Fear"

Prentice, who carried two loaded automatics in his automobile, said he had "lived in constant fear of kidnapping since my grandfather's death." He notified police immediately.

Lieut. John Coughlin of the Warren avenue station announced that a pretty young nurse, friend of Prentice, had been abducted late last night and freed with a "message" for Prentice which might have delivered him into the hands of kidnappers.

The nurse, Miss Margaret Montgomery, was held about two hours and threatened with death, she said. Prentice notified police after she had telephoned him from a restaurant nearby the place she was released and asked him to hasten there.

Miss Montgomery said two men who bound and gagged her as she walked home from the Presbyterian hospital had threatened to shoot her if she failed to deliver a (Continued on Page Ten.)

TRIO EXECUTED FOR MURDER OF CINCINNATI MAN

MICHIGAN CITY, Ind., June 10.—(UP)—Three former Ohio convicts walked steadily to their death early today from the state penitentiary death row where the sister of one of them, former wife of another, had sobbed her desire to "be in there to pull the switch."

The woman was Mrs. George Brownerman, Cincinnati. Her brother William A. Kuhlman, 28, died with her former husband, Frank Gore Williams, 24, Louisville, and John Poholsky, 35, for the "head and hands" murder of Harry R. Miller, 65, retired Cincinnati fire department chief.

It was Indiana's first triple execution. As the men were put to death in the electric chair, Heber L. He is scheduled to die June 25.

"That instructor's seat looked awfully empty," said the young high school graduate, as she brought her plane to a stop at the municipal airport for a perfect three-point landing.

Although Amelia Earhart is her heroine, Marguerite says she does not have any immediate ambitions to circumnavigate the globe.

"For the present," she said, "I'll continue my gliding flights to circling Chattanooga," and to her that takes in a lot of territory right now. "But I may offer Miss Earhart some competition in the future," she added, with one of her broad smiles.

Marguerite, according to her instructor, Webb Kimble, is the youngest girl flyer in Tennessee. Kimble says the young aviator shows unusual flying ability.

W. P. A. PROJECTS END BECAUSE OF CANNING SEASON

Sidewalk and storm sewer projects were temporarily suspended Thursday for workers to accept private employment.

Workers on both programs had sufficient time in for the present pay period and would ordinarily not return to work until next Monday. Two men abducted a pretty young nurse friend of Prentice and instructed her to deliver a message to him on pain of death. The message would have brought Prentice to a rendezvous, where, police believed, he would have been kidnapped.

"Lived in Fear"
Prentice, who carried two loaded automatics in his automobile, said he had "lived in constant fear of kidnapping since my grandfather's death." He notified police immediately.

Lieut. John Coughlin of the Warren avenue station announced that a pretty young nurse, friend of Prentice, had been abducted late last night and freed with a "message" for Prentice which might have delivered him into the hands of kidnapers.

The nurse, Miss Margaret Montgomery, was held about two hours and threatened with death, she said. Prentice notified police after she had telephoned him from a restaurant nearby the place she was released and asked him to hasten there.

Miss Montgomery said two men who bound and gagged her as she walked home from the Presbyterian hospital had threatened to shoot her if she failed to deliver a (Continued on Page Ten.)

F. RUDISILL'S WILL BEQUEATHS $22,000 ESTATE

Life Estate Provided For Widow As Document and

OTTERBEIN HOME AIDED

Mrs. Rudisill and Lawyer to Execute Property

Will of William F. Rudisill, Pickaway township, and three codicils, disposing of an estate estimated at $22,000, including $18,000 in real estate and $4,000 in personal property, was admitted to probate Wednesday.

The original will was executed on March 26, 1917 and witnessed by George F. Grand-Girard and Charles Gerhardt. It gives a life estate to his widow, Mrs. Sude R. Rudisill, in the home farm comprising 225 acres of land in Pickaway township.

At the death or remarriage of Mrs. Rudisill it directs the farm be sold, the proceeds invested in securities and the interest to be paid to his grandson, Franklin Gail Calvert, Columbus, during his lifetime. At Calvert's death the money is to be divided among Rudisill's sisters, Mrs. Sarah A. Flick and Mrs. Mary C. Keel, McComb, O., Mrs. Elizabeth Huntwork, Lansing, Mich., Mrs. Ada L. Pfingst, Syracuse, Ind., and his brother, Arch A. Rudisill, in McComb in equal shares. Mrs. Flick and Mrs. Keel are now deceased.

Farm to Be Sold
The will authorizes also the sale of 153 acres in Saltcreek township, known as the "Riffle Farm" and the investment of the proceeds, and payment of the interest to his widow during her lifetime, the same to be distributed to his sisters and brother after her death or remarriage.

The first codicil, executed on March 17, 1926 and witnessed by J. R. Noecker and Orville E. Barr, discloses that Mr. Rudisill had disposed of the "Riffle Farm" and had acquired 155 acres from his sister, Mrs. Pfingst and her husband, situated in Pickaway township. The farm was bequeathed to his widow for her lifetime and at her death to the Otterbein home, a charitable and benevolent institution operated by the U. B. church in Warren county.

This codicil relates also that Mr. Rudisill and his wife delivered their promissory note to the Otterbein home for $20,000, payable as soon as both he and his wife had died. Later Mr. Rudisill and his wife conveyed the 155 acres to the home. The provision relative to the note still stands, and is in addition to the gift of the farm.

By provisions of the first codicil he directs the payment of $1,000 to the Hitler-Ludwig cemetery for upkeep of a lot. In his original will he names his wife and brother as his executors.

The second codicil was executed Aug. 17, 1933 in the presence of Noecker and Barr, and a third on Jan. 5, 1934 in the presence of Messrs. Barr and Gerhardt.

In the second codicil he revokes his appointment of his brother, Arch A. Rudisill, and names the widow and Mr. Gerhardt as his executors, stating as his reason for the change that his brother has many business affairs of his own and resides considerable distance from Pickaway county.

The codicils are devoted mainly to bequests of household articles, pictures and mementoes of his children, both of whom preceded him in death. He bequeathed also $500 to Maple Grove cemetery at Findlay, O., for upkeep of a lot where his first wife is buried.

George Steeley, Andrew H. Warner and Wernich Stuckey are named appraisers.

Ten years ago now, things were stirring here plenty. The C. & O. railroad was being built through Ashville and the new school house was under construction. E. E. Smith was mayor and S. C. Allison, marshal. Arrests and court were frequent.

Chickens Not Included
Had Sterley Croman, down at Croman's chicken farm in his invitation "to come and see me sometime and bring your dinner along," "had said," "Fried chicken, all you can stuff," then he'd been telling us something worth while. But here's hoping, Sterley, that you have a big crowd and a good time. We'll be seeing you.

Ball Club to Try
The local ball club, so Manager Smith said, will try it again next Sunday and hope the weather man will be a little more merciful and let us beat the comers. Craven Drugs, Columbus. There will be a real umpire, who knows his ball, on the job, to put some life into the game. We have a good team of ball players and once they get going it'll take a good amateur bunch to turn the boys back from the win. Ran across two "tough old time players" sitting by the radio following the Red Bird game today and they were getting a big kick out of it. But we soon lost the Red Birds by telling about what awful good players we were "some years ago". We are telling you about Charlie Heffner and Si Smith and no one ever worked harder than these boys when a game was to be won. Many of the old team mates have passed on and we hope are taken good care of.

Incoming Mail Heavy
Ed Messick the mail wheeler (not carrier) between the postoffice and the N. & W. depot had an "awful load on" yesterday. He said it was the heaviest incoming load of mail he had for the last several years—catalogs and magazines. In his three trips daily he has wheeled many thousands of miles.

Curry Not Alarmed
Bill Curry is not much alarmed about it though. He said he was up on the farm yesterday and found in the wheat field a lot of green lice on the wheat heads, but they did not seem to be doing much if any damage. No, we've known Bill for a long while and don't you dare call him lousy—they are all on the wheat.

Sark 10-Year Man
John Sark for the tenth year is at the Crites Cannery. He knows the whole works by heart and this year is the all around handy man. About 150 people are employed at the factory now, working in two shifts of twelve hours each as nearly as it can be arranged.

"Volley" Pushing, the time-keeper, has a real job and as he says, "it just almost runs him ragged", to keep track of everybody and the number of hours they work. The physical plant, as a whole, has been greatly improved. Prospects for a big corn pack were never better.

Dwelling Modernized
The Clyde Hoover dwelling, west of the old school building, is being entirely modernized and will be occupied when completed by Dale Fowler and family. Mr. Fowler is the Ford service man.

Dunnick Funeral Held
The funeral of Ben M. Dunnick held here at the Lutheran church yesterday afternoon was very largely attended. In his life everyone who knew Ben was his friend. Jovial and honest in his dealings and always ready to do a neighbor a good turn.

Many Pretty Gardens
There are many pretty flowers and flower gardens about the village but are not just very "far up" on naming flowers. Remember quite well the old hollyhocks and Johnny-Jump-Ups in the garden at the old home when a youngster. Mrs. Ann Essick has an outstanding pretty garden among the many others here.

Will of William F. Rudisill, Pickaway township, and three codicils, disposing of an estate estimated at $22,000, including $18,000 in real estate and $4,000 in personal property, was admitted to probate Wednesday.

The original will was executed on March 26, 1917 and witnessed by George F. Grand-Girard and Charles Gerhardt. It gives a life estate to his widow, Mrs. Studie R. Rudisill, in the home farm comprising 225 acres of land in Pickaway township.

The will authorizes also the sale of 153 acres in Saltcreek township, known as the "Riffle Farm" and the investment of the proceeds, and payment of the interest to his widow during her lifetime, the same to be distributed to his sisters and brother after her death or remarriage.

Wreck Fatal to Walter Bunn Basis For Petitions

First of four suits against the county commissioners, asking a total of $41,073 and based on the auto wreck at the bridge over Salt creek on the Tarlton-Adelphi road, was assigned for trial in common pleas court, Wednesday, for July 19.

The suit assigned is that of Carl Wiggins, Circleville Route 4, a minor, who brought action through his mother, Mrs. Edna Wiggins. He asks $5,000 for injuries alleged to have been received in the mishap Oct. 11, 1936.

His petition says he was a passenger in the auto of Walter R. Bunn. The bridge collapsed. It charges the commissioners failed to keep the bridge in proper repair.

In their answer to the action the commissioners assert that if the plaintiff was injured it was because of negligence of the driver. The bridge was damaged, and a new structure with approaches is to be constructed as a W. P. A. project.

Joseph L. Eisenberg, as administrator of the estate of Walter Bunn, killed in the mishap, asks $25,400; Ernest Garrett, Wayne township, a passenger in the car asks $10,150, and Mrs. Wiggins and Bert Wiggins sued for $523.

THEATRES

AT THE CLIFTONA
Stan Laurel, starred with Oliver Hardy in the feature comedy, "Way Out West" which opens Friday at the Cliftona Theatre, had the ingenious Hal Roach Studios' mechanical gag department build him a prop lie detector that is the laugh of the season among West Coast fishermen.

The lean-faced comedian is an ardent fisherman, recently having hooked a 258-pound Marlin swordfish off Catalina Island, and naturally tells and listens to many fish stories. So the idea of the gadget is to have it operate when the wild tales are being told. It electrically registers "doubtful," "preposterous" and "it's a lie." Finally when it reaches the limit it explodes with a bang.

Laurel sprung his gag prop on the set one day and had a lot of fun with it.

NEW STATE LAW HITS WELLSBURG

City, County Officials See Marriage Business Ended

WELLSBURG, W. Va., June 10.—(UP)—City and county officials saw financial tragedy today as a $100,000-a-year marriage license business closes tomorrow under West Virginia's new three-day marriage application law.

The community has been the mecca of thousands of Ohio couples who have crossed the Ohio River to be wedded without delay. County officials, sensing the loss in revenue, said the decrease in weddings will mean an increase of three cents on the $100 value of property for taxation purposes.

Heretofore, the money received from issuance of marriage licenses paid the cost of operation of the county clerk's office and another division with $10,000 left over each year for state revenue.

Ministers, taxi-drivers, restaurant owners and city officials say the new legal requirements will mean much to them. One preacher, the Rev. Curtis B. Wise, is going to give up the profitable marrying business he built up and go back to Follansbee and start a new church.

There is just one ray of hope in the situation, according to H. J. McGlumphy, a taxi-driver, who said he would open a mail-order business for marriage applications. Through a loop hole in the law, couples are not required to be present for signing an application for marriage. The only stipulation is that the signatures must be accompanied by a notary public's seal.

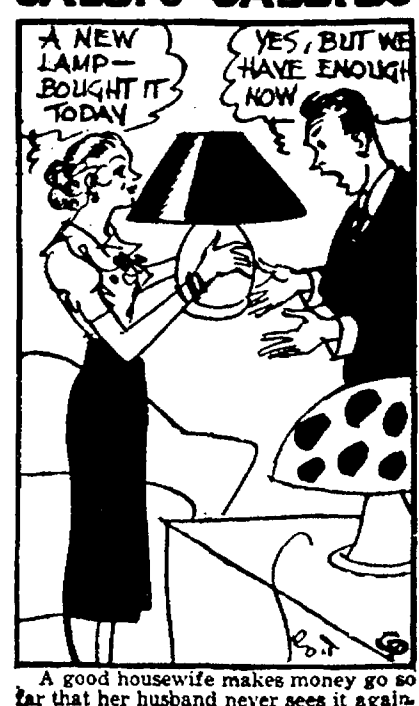

McGlumphy said he proposed to open an office here and distribute literature in Cleveland, Akron, Columbus and other Ohio towns advertising his service.

BREAKFAST FOOD TO BE PROVIDED RELIEF CLIENTS

Breakfast supplies will be featured in the commodity distribution for city relief clients to be held from 8 to 11 a. m. Friday.

Wade Carter, commodity distributor, said grapefruit juice, canned milk, dry skim milk and oat cereal will be distributed. The distribution will be at the usual place, the Goodfidelity building. Relief officials expected a shipment of fish this week, but so far it has not arrived.

Ark of Covenant Hunted

JERUSALEM (UP)—A search for the sacred Ark of the Covenant and the Ten Commandments is being made on Mount Ebal in the Holy Land by an Englishman and an Irishman—the founders of a new London religious society known as the "True Law Party."

The equestrian statue of General Andrew Jackson stands in Lafayette square in Washington, directly in front of the White House. The metal from which it was cast came from British cannon which were captured at the Battle of New Orleans.

BEFORE - WEDDING PACT OF COUPLE DECLARED LEGAL

COLUMBUS, June 10.—(UP)—The Ohio Supreme court today upheld an ante-nuptial agreement between the late Charles W. Somers, Port Clinton millionaire, and his widow, Mary Alice Somers. It denied her a widow's share in the estate.

The court refused to review decisions of the lower courts of Ottawa county which found a $6,000 yearly allowance agreement executed prior to their marriage in Orlando, Fla., in January, 1930, was valid and that she was barred from participation in his estimated $1,500,000 estate other than the agreed amount. The agreement provided the income was only to be effective during her life time and after Somers' death which occurred three years ago.

The bulk of the estate will go to other heirs and beneficiaries and Somers' daughter, Dorothy Philena Somers Clark.

REICHELDERFER DIVORCE

Roy Reichelderfer filed suit in common pleas court Wednesday against Wilda Rose Reichelderfer, Logansport, Ind., for divorce. He charges absence and neglect of duty. They were married June 22, 1935, in Logansport, Ind. The action asks Mrs. Reichelderfer be restored to her maiden name of Sturken.

Sleighs Used All Year

MONTREAL (UP)—Sleighs travel over one narrow street here every day of the year. The sleighs are used to exercise horses from a nearby stable. In winter the are heavily loaded, but in summer the horses drag them along the pavement empty.

FERGUSON HALTS TAYLOR SALARY IN NEW DISPUTE

COLUMBUS, June 10.—(UP)—State Auditor Joseph T. Ferguson today ordered the salary of Jacob B. Taylor as chairman of the department of accounting, college of commerce, Ohio State University, held up because he is drawing $450 a month additional as chief accountant for the Ohio unemployment compensation commission.

Prof. Taylor, according to the auditor, started working for the unemployment commission in February at $300 a month, part time. A month later his title was changed to "acting chief accountant—full time" and his salary raised to $450, according to Ferguson.

Prof. Taylor's position at the university, for which he receives $400 a month, is also a full time job, Ferguson said.

LICENSE DEMAND HIGH

COLUMBUS, June 10.—(UP)—State Conservation Commissioner L. A. Woodruff today estimated the probable total demand for the new state universal fishing license would exceed 700,000. Better than 400,000 licenses have been distributed since the law went into effect June 1.

1937 Buick

THERE'S a lot more in this picture than meets the eye, though the eye has plenty to sparkle about in the stunning style of this spirited Buick car.

What you don't see here is the lift that's yours when you touch off the flashing power of Buick's valve-in-head straight-eight engine and go streaming off across the map.

What you don't see is the solid, steady feel of Buick—the firm stability that holds you on the line without weave or sway or wander on straightaways or on the curves.

What you don't see is the assurance you'll know once you step on Buick's tiptoe brakes and see how surely and safely they make you master of its power.

We can't picture here the security that's yours in a body of steel-fused-to-steel—with floor, roof, side panels, cowl all welded into one stout unit of protective metal.

And only time can tell you how big is your money's worth in Buick—all steel and two yards wide, a big package that's your one best bet of the field when you add the superb action that gives its metals life.

All we can do is show you how a Buick looks—and handsome as this gallant traveler is, remind you that its good looks are literally the least of what it has to offer. Go try a Buick now!

FIRST OF SUITS NAMING COUNTY SET FOR JULY 19

Action of Carl Wiggins For $5,000 Cites Condition of Tarlton Bridge

OTHER CLAIMS FILED

Wreck Fatal to Walter Bunn Basis For Petitions

First of four suits against the county commissioners, asking a total of $41,073 and based on the auto wreck at the bridge over Salt creek on the Tarlton-Adelphi road, was assigned for trial in common pleas court, Wednesday, for July 19.

The suit assigned is that of Carl Wiggins, Circleville Route 4, a minor, who brought action through his mother, Mrs. Edna Wiggins. He asks $5,000 for injuries alleged to have been received in the mishap Oct. 11, 1936.

His petition says he was a passenger in the auto of Walter R. Bunn. The bridge collapsed. It charges the commissioners failed to keep the bridge in proper repair.

In their answer to the action the commissioners assert that if the plaintiff was injured it was because of negligence of the driver. The bridge was damaged, and a new structure with approaches is to be constructed as a W. P. A. project.

Joseph L. Eisenberg, as administrator of the estate of Walter Bunn, killed in the mishap, asks $25,400; Ernest Garrett, Wayne township, a passenger in the car asks $10,150, and Mrs. Wiggins and Bert Wiggins sued for $523.

AT THE CLIFTONA

Stan Laurel, starred with Oliver Hardy in the feature comedy, "Way Out West" which opens Friday at the Cliftona Theatre, had the ingenious Hal Roach Studios' mechanical gag department build him a prop lie detector that is the laugh of the season among West Coast fishermen.

The lean-faced comedian is an ardent fisherman, recently having hooked a 258-pound Marlin swordfish off Catalina Island, and naturally tells and listens to many fish stories. So the idea of the gadget is to have it operate when the wild tales are being told. It electrically registers "doubtful," "preposterous" and "it's a lie." Finally when it reaches the limit it explodes with a bang.

Laurel sprung his gag prop on the set one day and had a lot of fun with it.

NEW STATE LAW HITS WELLSBURG

City, County Officials See Marriage Business Ended

WELLSBURG, W. Va., June 10.—(UP)—City and county officials saw financial tragedy today as a $100,000-a-year marriage license business closes tomorrow under West Virginia's new three-day marriage application law.

The community has been the mecca of thousands of Ohio couples who have crossed the Ohio River to be wedded without delay. County officials, sensing the loss in revenue, said the decrease in weddings will mean an increase of three cents on the $100 value of property for taxation purposes.

Heretofore, the money received from issuance of marriage licenses paid the cost of operation of the county clerk's office and another division with $10,000 left over each year for state revenue.

Ministers, taxi-drivers, restaurant owners and city officials say the new legal requirements will mean much to them. One preacher, the Rev. Curtis B. Wise, is going to give up the profitable marrying business he built up and go back to Follansbee and start a new church.

There is just one ray of hope in the situation, according to H. J. McGlumphy, a taxi-driver, who said he would open a mail-order business for marriage applications.

Through a loop hole in the law, couples are not required to be present for signing an application for marriage. The only stipulation is that the signatures must be accompanied by a notary public's seal.

McGlumphy said he proposed to open an office here and distribute literature in Cleveland, Akron, Columbus and other Ohio town's advertising his service.

BREAKFAST FOOD TO BE PROVIDED RELIEF CLIENTS

Breakfast supplies will be featured in the commodity distribution for city relief clients to be held from 8 to 11 a. m. Friday.

Wade Carter, commodity distributor, said grapefruit juice, canned milk, dry skim milk and oat cereal will be distributed. The distribution will be at the usual place, the Goodfederal building. Relief officials expected a shipment of fish this week, but so far it has not arrived.

BEFORE - WEDDING PACT OF COUPLE DECLARED LEGAL

COLUMBUS, June 10.—(UP)—The Ohio Supreme court today upheld an ante-nuptial agreement between the late Charles W. Somers, Port Clinton millionaire, and his widow, Mary Alice Somers. It denied her a widow's share in the estate.

The court refused to review decisions of the lower courts of Ottawa county which found a $6,000 yearly allowance agreement executed prior to their marriage in Orlando, Fla., in January, 1930, was valid and that she was barred from participation in his estimated $1,500,000 estate other than the agreed amount. The agreement provided the income was only to be effective during her life time and after Somers' death which occurred three years ago.

The bulk of the estate will go to other heirs and beneficiaries and Somers' daughter, Dorothy Philena Somers Clark.

FERGUSON HALTS TAYLOR SALARY IN NEW DISPUTE

COLUMBUS, June 10.—(UP)—State Auditor Joseph T. Ferguson today ordered the salary of Jacob B. Taylor as chairman of the department of accounting, college of commerce, Ohio State University, held up because he is drawing $450 a month additional as chief accountant for the Ohio unemployment compensation commission.

Prof. Taylor, according to the auditor, started working for the unemployment commission in February at $300 a month, part time. A month later his title was changed to "acting chief accountant—full time" and his salary raised to $450, according to Ferguson.

Prof. Taylor's position at the university, for which he receives $400 a month, is also a full time job, Ferguson said.

LICENSE DEMAND HIGH

COLUMBUS, June 10.—(UP)—State Conservation Commissioner L. A. Woodruff today estimated the probable total demand for the new state universal fishing license would exceed 700,000. Better than 400,000 licenses have been distributed since the law went into effect June 1.

ALL STEEL and TWO YARDS WIDE

THERE'S a lot more in this picture than meets the eye, though the eye has plenty to sparkle about in the stunning style of this spirited Buick car.

What you don't see here is the lift that's yours when you touch off the flashing power of Buick's valve-in-head straight-eight engine and go streaming off across the map.

What you don't see is the solid, steady feel of Buick—the firm stability that holds you on the line without weave or sway or wander on straightaways or on the curves.

What you don't see is the assurance you'll know once you step on Buick's tiptoe brakes and see how surely and safely they make you master of its power.

We can't picture here the security that's yours in a body of steel-fused-to-steel—with floor, roof, side panels, cowl all welded into one stout unit of protective metal.

And only time can tell you how big is your money's worth in Buick—all steel and two yards wide, a big package that's your one best bet of the field when you add the superb action that gives its metals life.

All we can do is show you how a Buick looks—and handsome as this gallant traveler is, remind you that its good looks are literally the least of what it has to offer. Go try a Buick now!

CITY BLUSHES, LAW PROTECTS NUDE BATHERS

Sandusky, O., Starts Drive To Repeal 90-Year-Old Ordinances

1846 STATUTES READ

City Commission to Act In Modernization Move

SANDUSKY, O., June 10 (UP)—The steel-rigid laws of 1846 will be revised and repealed under a City Commission's drive against obsolete regulations.

The laws at that time were so numerous and quirky, that even law abiding citizens "looked before they acted," lest they break some musty unknown regulation.

One regulation, passed in 1853 and unrepealed to date, provides for nude bathing in Sandusky Bay between sunset and sunrise. The regulation states that "it shall be unlawful for any person, in an unclothed and naked condition, to go into or bathe in the open waters of Sandusky bay, within the corporate limits of the city, at any time after the rising of the sun and before dark."

Rules For Safety
A law passed in 1862 forbade throwing objects at horses, carriages, wagons and birds. In 1872 it was unlawful for "any boy under the age of 18 years to jump on or off from any railroad car within the corporate limits of the city."

"No lamp-pole climbing," lighting or extinguishing public lights, were "shalt nots," and carried heavy penalties.

The "druggists cowboys" were without prairies under the law which said "loading on sidewalks" and also "fences adjacent thereto," were misdemeanors. Use of obscene, insulting or abusive language in the hearing of citizens made a person subject to penalty.

An old statute stated, "Street cars shall at no time be driven at a greater rate of speed than 6 miles an hour" and that at certain intersections "the rate of speed shall not be faster than a walk."

Strikers Seek His Ouster

WHILE Sheriff Ralph Elser of Mahoning County (Youngstown), Ohio, prepared for an anticipated shattering of the quiet on the steel strike front by hiring 50 more deputies and equipping them with armor-plated trucks, a movement was under way in Youngstown to remove him from office. Elser and five deputies are accused of using rifles and tear gas on the pickets at Struthers, Ohio, in an effort to permit a freight car loaded with food to enter the plant. C. I. O. leaders appealed to Gov. Martin L. Davey of Ohio to intervene to prevent possible violence.

ARMY AIR CORPS BEING BUILT TO GREATER POWER

WASHINGTON, June 10—(UP)—The war department is taking active steps to build up the U. S. army air corps reserve officer strength as a nucleus for a large fighting air force in time of war.

Officials revealed today. Corps area commanders have been instructed to circulate all licensed airplane pilots in their areas to determine how many commercial pilots able to qualify for reserve officers' commissions would be willing to serve in the air corps in event of war.

Each air corps commander has been supplied with a list of all civilian pilots residing in his area. The list was prepared by the Aeronautical Chamber of Commerce. The commanders were instructed within five rods of any building where fire was used was also punishable.

Other laws provide against hanging on moving vehicles; music, stalls or women in places where intoxicating liquor was sold, and the keeping of certain quantities of gunpowder for longer than 48 hours.

Police contend ordinances are in such shape it is impossible, without searching for hours and even days, to find which ordinances have been repealed or amended.

Why are some baked potatoes soggy?

The matter of the selection of potatoes is an important one, but also a difficult one for the home-maker.

There are many different types of potatoes, each variety having a use for which they may be best used. In general, it is wise to select potatoes of medium size and avoid those having many deep eyes and poor shapes. Large potatoes often have had a second growth and a thin spot will be found in the center when they are cut. Potatoes that are too small may be immature and lacking in fine flavor.

Potatoes should be selected for baking which are fairly good size and of the variety which contains a high percentage of starch evenly distributed in the cells. Then as the starch grains become cooked and burst, it gives a mealy texture which is important in a baked potato. If the potatoes have a large amount of water and the starch is unevenly distributed they will be soggy. When the starch cooks, it does not break apart the cell wall so that the cells become filled with water, making the potato moist, giving it characteristics which we ordinarily call "soggy."

If the protein content of the potatoes is high, the potatoes will be waxy. A potato which will bake well does not as a rule boil well because it becomes mealy.

Can a sponge cake be made with butter? Or is it impossible to have a Butter Sponge Cake?

A butter sponge cake is not mixed like a conventional sponge cake. The difference in mixing is responsible for producing a light, fine texture that pleases the most fastidious cake makers. Here is a recipe that you may like to try:

Butter Sponge Cake
1 1/2 c. cake flour
1 c. egg, well
6 eggs
1 c. sugar
1 1/2 tsp. butter
1 tsp. vanilla

Measure the flour after sifting once. Add the salt and sift together three times. Mix the eggs and sugar together and place them in the top part of a double boiler. Be sure that the water in the bottom part of the double boiler is hot but not boiling. Beat the sugar and egg mixture over this hot water until lukewarm. Remove it from the heat and beat for about seven minutes, or until the mixture is very fluffy. The sugar should be dissolved and the egg yolks thick. Fold in the flour slowly and add the vanilla, always folding carefully. Slowly fold in the butter which has been melted. It should be thin and oily but not hot, when added. Pour into a shallow ungreased loaf pan 8 1/2 by 12 inches, and bake at 350 degrees for 35 or 40 minutes.

What does the word "mousse" mean? Is it a dessert or salad?

A mousse may be most any dish that is frothy and foamy. It is usually frozen. When delicate, smooth mixtures are made with whipped cream, a dessert results. A meat mousse closely resembles a whole meal salad, but has the characteristic fluffy texture.

Outing for Orphans Planned On June 21

The 31st annual outing of the Columbus Automobile Club for the orphans of Franklin, Pickaway, Union, Madison and Delaware counties, will be held all day Monday, June 21st, at Orlentangy Park.

This outing which has come to be a gala event in the lives of the orphaned children in this part of Ohio, is regarded by officials of the club as one of the finest features of the club's work. This is made possible by the donations of the members to the Clubs Orphan's Outing Fund.

A motor caravan, composed of cars of club members, huge buses furnished by the bus companies, school buses and private cars, will collect the children from the different children's homes, and will assemble on East Broad Street in Columbus about 8:30 o'clock in the morning. Once they have all arrived, the procession will head for the park, and once they have passed through the park gates the entire day will be devoted to the two big things in a kiddie's life—eats and fun.

Those in charge of past outings say it is amazing how much food and goodies the youngsters can stow away, but there is always enough for all of them.

The outing will be in charge of a committee composed of Byron Redman, chairman, J. M. Vercoe, Simon Lazarus, George Burba, Mrs. Gustav Bruder, Sidney Phillips, George Schmidt, Robert O'Brien, Leo Haelein, G. T. Landrum, Alex. K. Krumm, treasurer, Thomas Sabrey, and Max Stearn.

"Ten crown" and "anchor" games get the best play, while more than a score of poker games are in progress all day long. The games are operated by a clique of hoboes who profess to make no more nor have no more than their fellows who play the games.

The Jungle is raided periodically by police but arrests seldom are made. Generally the men are back at their games an hour or so after a raid.

When police descend on the Jungle, the players and operators scatter. By the time officers reach the center of the casino it is impossible to identify operators of the games.

ELKS TO STORM DENVER JULY 11

DENVER (UP)—Denver will be the host city this summer to the 73rd national Elks convention, expected to be one of the largest fraternal meets ever held.

More than 40,000 members and their families, representing the 1,600 Elks lodges in the United States and insular possessions, are expected for the week-long gathering which opens July 11.

Final arrangements for the big national reunion were completed at a conference here attended by David Sholtz, grand exalted ruler of the Elks and former governor of Florida. He predicted the convention will be one of the largest and most colorful in the history of the organization.

Principal features of the convention include a gigantic parade, the national Elks golf tournament for the $2,000 John J. Doyle perpetual trophy; a trap and skeet shoot, and national contests for drum and bugle corps, glee clubs, bands and drill teams.

July 16 has been set aside for a pilgrimage to the Will Rogers Shrine of the Sun on Cheyenne Mountain, near Colorado Springs. The shrine was erected by Spencer Penrose, Colorado capitalist, in memory of Rogers, an Elk of New York Lodge No. 1.

CITY BLUSHES, LAW PROTECTS NUDE BATHERS

Sandusky, O., Starts Drive
To Repeal 90-Year-Old Ordinances

1846 STATUTES READ

City Commission to Act In Modernization Move

SANDUSKY, O., June 10 (UP)—The steel-rigid laws of 1846 will be revised and repealed under a City Commission's drive against obsolete regulations.

The laws at that time were so numerous and quirky, that even law abiding citizens "looked before they acted," lest they break some musty unknown regulation.

One regulation, passed in 1853 and unrecalled to date, provides for nude bathing in Sandusky Bay between sunset and sunrise. The regulation states that "it shall be unlawful for any person, in an unclothed and naked condition, to go into or bathe in the open waters of Sandusky Bay, within the corporate limits of the city, at any time after the rising of the sun and before dark."

Rules For Safety

A law passed in 1862 forbade throwing objects at horses, carriages, wagons and birds. In 1872 it was unlawful for "any boy under the age of 18 years to jump on or off from any railroad car within the corporate limits of the city."

"No lamp-pole climbing," lighting or extinguishing public lights, were "shalt nots," and carried heavy penalties.

The "drugstore cowboys" were without prairies under the law which said "loafing on sidewalks" and also "fences adjacent thereto," were misdemeanors. Use of obscene, insulting or abusive language in the hearing of citizens made a person subject to penalty.

An old statute stated, "Street cars shall at no time be driven at a greater rate of speed than 6 miles an hour" and that at certain intersections "the rate of speed shall not be faster than a walk."

A butter sponge cake is not mixed like a conventional sponge cake. The difference in mixing is responsible for producing a light fine texture that places the most fastidious cake makers. Here is the recipe that you may like to try:

Butter Sponge Cake
1 1/4 C. cake flour
1/4 tsp. salt
6 eggs
3 C. sugar
4 Tbsp. butter
1 tsp. vanilla

Measure the flour after sifting once. Add the salt and sift together three times. Mix the eggs and sugar together and place them in the top part of a double boiler. Be sure that the water in the bottom part of the double boiler is hot but not boiling. Beat the sugar and egg mixture over this hot water until lukewarm. Remove it from the stove and beat for about seven minutes, or until the mixture is very fluffy. The sugar should be dissolved and the egg yolks thick. Fold in the flour slowly and add the vanilla, always mixing carefully. Slowly fold in the butter which has been melted. It should be thin and oily but not hot, when added. Pour into a shallow ungreased loaf pan 8 1/2 by 12 inches, and bake at 350 degrees for 35 or 40 minutes.

WASHINGTON, June 10.—(UP)—Sunday is the day of greatest hazard for Ohio motorists and pedestrians and Wednesday is the safest, the U. S. census bureau said today.

Automobile casualties, the study of Ohio vital statistics for 1935 showed, have been rising steadily since the last decade.

The year's death toll from motor vehicle accidents totaled 2,401 and of this number, the bureau said, 466 were killed on Sunday, Saturday was a close runner-up with 434 deaths. Wednesday deaths totaled 250 and 251 were killed on Monday.

October, November and December were the most tragic months, while the fewest deaths occurred during January, February and March.

Heart disease continued to take the largest toll in the state, the summary showed. Deaths from this cause numbered 17,628 of the year's total of 77,356. Cancer took 8,272 lives, tuberculosis 3,216 and cerebral hemorrhage 6,901.

Tuberculosis Losing
Tuberculosis is slowly being conquered in Ohio while cancer deaths are on the increase, the bureau said. The tuberculosis death rate has fallen from 78.3 per 100,000 to 53.8 in the last 10 years. In the same period, the cancer rate increased from 93.4 to 123.3.

CURLS SNIPPED FROM 100 GIRLS PROVE A STORY

FULTON, Mo. (UP)—J. Roy Tucker, 66, well-to-do business man-farmer, has 100 ringlets of feminine hair mounted on a sheet of cardboard to remind him of his boast that he was once Missouri's champion Romeo.

The ringlet collection was gathered 40 years ago when Tucker was a student at Westminster college here. Tucker owned a new phaeton and a team of prancing horses and he made a $100 bet with a fellow student that he could take 100 different girls riding on successive nights.

To prove that he fulfilled the conditions of the bet Tucker snipped a curl from the head of each of the girls he took riding and he has preserved them through the years.

"I won the bet," Tucker said, "but it cost me about $300 to entertain the girls I took riding, so I don't know whether it was much of a smart bet or not."

"BY ACTUAL TEST I GET MORE MILEAGE, QUICKER PICKUP WITH SOHIO X-70!"

SOHIO X-70

"I'm no mechanic, or advertising man either, but it's easy for me to see why X-70 is Ohio's most popular gasoline. I've tested it out, and find that my mileage has increased, the car rolls smoother and accelerates faster. Haven't had a speck of carbon trouble. Since I average 16,000 miles a year, X-70's long mileage qualities are saving me a sizable amount."—(Letter from a Dayton, Ohio, Pontiac owner. Name on request.)

SOHIO X-70's lively pickup makes your driving safer!

Extra pickup naturally means extra protection in traffic emergencies. Standard Oil's special refining process not only makes X-70 livelier, but, as X-70 users say, a money-saver on mileage. Buy a tankful today and make the X-70 test yourself!

LOW COST, HIGH WAGE FORMULA

HOW to satisfy both employees and customers, the one with higher wages and the other with reasonable prices, is the subject of an editorial in the American Builder for June, which recommends to business men, large and small, what it believes to be the only policy that can remedy the present discontent of the masses which is promoting government and labor union attacks on all business threatening the destruction of the system of private enterprise.

"Why business men?" this analysis asks.
"Because politicians and labor leaders are engaging more and more in competition with business men for the favor of both their employees and customers. In order to survive and succeed business men must meet every kind of competition, including this. Either they will meet it, or politicians and labor leaders will in future run business — and when they run it there won't be any efficiency or profits in it."

"Business can satisfy its customers—who include everybody — only by providing them increasing amounts of goods and services that they want at prices that they can and willingly pay. They are the market, and no company or industry can long dictate to its market. Buyers can, and often do, strike; and when they strike there are depressions, unemployment for labor and losses for business."

"Apparently the principal competition to which the management of industry is subject at present is for the favor and cooperation of its employees. Consequently, many advances in hourly wages are being granted. But any advance in hourly wages in excess of the advance in hourly output per employee increases operating costs, and therefore either curtails profits or necessitates advances in prices that customers must pay."

"There is only one means by which, even temporarily, to satisfy both employees and customers. This is to acquire and use improved machinery and adopt improved methods that will increase average output per employee per hour. Only by this means can production costs be kept down in spite of advances in hourly wages; and only by keeping down production costs can profits be made while charging prices that will satisfy customers."

"For any industry or all industries merely to raise hourly wages will not solve present economic and social problems.
The direct and indirect customers of every industry are much more numerous than its wage earners, because a large part of the buying public—farmers, for example—do not work for wages, and, therefore, may be injured, by advances in them."

"Its customers, not its employees, are the most important problem of every industry.
Only satisfied customers will provide business that will afford the workers of any industry with good jobs and its owners with good or any profits."

U. S. SHOULD CONDEMN ALMERIA
WASHINGTON — Inner council discussions about the European crisis have shown the President to be much more critical of the Germans and the Italians than his State Department advisers.

But Cordell Hull and Norman Davis were the height of caution. They believed that the United States should do nothing.
Davis, particularly, believed in a do-nothing policy, especially anything which did not follow the leadership of the British.

In conversations with the German Ambassador, Mr. Hull intimated in mild diplomatic language that any repetition of the Almeria incident might force the United States to take action under the Neutrality Act.

Ambassador Dieckhoff cabled this to Hitler; no word of it leaked out to the German public.

HULL ON SPOT

Secretary Hull, always the height of cautious graciousness, had a hard time maintaining it during the visit of Democratic and Farmer-Labor Congressmen to demand the invocation of the Neutrality Act against Germany and Italy.

Hull can be one of the most long-winded talkers in the world when he wants to avoid an issue. This time he talked about fishing, Tennessee, the days when he was in Congress, and almost everything else in order to avoid the Spanish question.

"I've always got my transom open for you boys to crawl through," he said;
"glad to see you anytime."

Finally Congressman O'Connell of Montana suggested that they didn't want to waste the Secretary of State's time with pleasantries.

"I'm always glad to take time to talk to you," replied Hull.

"But we're rather busy," was the reply.
Whereupon they finally got down to the subject of Spain. The delegation maintained that the bombardment of Almeria was an act of war and that the United States should declare an arms embargo against Germany and Italy.

"You're just taking sides in a factional dispute," Hull replied. "I can't afford to do that. I'm likely to have another delegation down here tomorrow, claiming that all of you should be jailed. I can't side with one faction or the other."

"Norman Thomas came in to see me the other day and compared helping the Spaniards to the help Lafayette had given the colonies in the Revolution, and I asked him if he was going to go over and be another Lafayette."

MERRY-GO-ROUND

To North Carolina's veteran Lindsay
Warren and Pennsylvania's first-term Robert G. Allen is due a good share of the credit for the President's final victory in the House on the $1,500,000,000 relief bill.
Their calm, dispassionate speeches did much to quell the spirit of revolt...

to learn this fundamental economic fact.
Many managers of business apparently need just now to be reminded of it."

J. Edgar Hoover, chief of the G-men, cites parole as America's leading crime menace. It seems that so many of the poor dear convicts aren't a bit grateful when they get out of jail.

This Spring is most disappointing, being entirely lacking so far in that most essential factor—the proper temperature conducive to the ennui that makes Spring fe-

Love is for Tomorrow

By VIRGINIA SCALLON

READ THIS FIRST:

Sandy and Marcia had met quite by accident near the home of the girl's grandmother in southern California.
He is an advertising executive who has just established his own firm and she is a talented commercial artist employed in a rival firm in Los Angeles.
After a week they fell in love. Marcia shows so much enthusiasm for her work that Sandy feels her love for him is second. They part in a huff and return to Los Angeles separately. Marcia believes she is to be taken into the arms of a rich man. Sandy is disappointed when she finds that one Walter Hartley has become the new partner.
Although Marcia had felt Paula Stodard, an art student, to Sandy for a job, she becomes jealous when Sandy lives the girl. Hartley, whom Marcia has been seeing occasionally, largely out of spite for Sandy, persuades her to join her friend, Ellen, and his friend, Tony, at a night club.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY:

CHAPTER 17

MARCIA was at a loss to understand why she'd agreed to go to Santa Anita with Walt, Ellen and Tony. She tried to excuse her weakness by thinking she owed it to Ellen not to spoil the party, but realized it had been no more than a compromise gesture to keep Walt from making a scene at the Grove the night before.

As they fought the crowds driving along the wide boulevards to the races, Marcia caught a glimpse of the magnificent plant, nestled at the foot of the hills. Turning in the vast parkway, they left their car with several thousand others and walked eagerly toward the tremendous pink-tiled grandstand and clubhouse. The enthusiasm of the crowd about them was contagious, and already Marcia caught hurried mention of a "tip on the third race, sure thing"—
"bet on Martel in the fifth"—
"Black Knight's a long shot due to come in."

As they left the motley throng and headed for the more aristocratic clubhouse, she felt a quickening of the pulse. Beautiful women, lavishly costumed; handsome men casually wearing sportswear worthy of the Sunday rotagraviure. She turned to Walt, and was surprised at his intention.

He was saying to Tony:
"Tony, I've got to win today.
Last week was disastrous, but I think I can pick a few winners out of today's entries. Have you any tips?"

"Couldn't say, Walt. These days there are more tips than there are horses in the races.
Everybody knows the jockey or the owner or the horse, personally.
Me, I think woman's intuition is as good as anything else."

Marcia preferred Tony's sporting attitude rather than Walt's greedy concentration on winning.
Once in the clubhouse and seated in their box, the girls looked about.
"Look, there's that Lilli Bronte again. Remember her Marcia?
She was at—well, look, she's with Lona von Brecht here too. Did you ever see such clothes?"

Marcia followed her gaze and nodded. "Her regular retinue of men, too," she said noncommi-tantly. Eagerly she scanned the boxes and recognized women whose faces were consistently reproduced on society and movie pages, parading like peacocks in their brilliant plumage.

"Look here," Tony told them.
"We came here to watch those things down on the track, not these clothes horses. Here's a racing form, Marcia. Let's see you pick a winner."

"Oh, I'm not betting," she said quickly.

"At the races and not betting?
Come, now Marcia," he objected.
"That's like going to a show and shutting your eyes, or ordering a lemonade at the most famous bar in town. Get into the spirit of the thing," he insisted.

Following his glance, she looked down at the tote board in front of the grandstand, and was amazed at the total amount of the bets already placed on this first race... $59,000, and the crowd was just beginning to bet as they saw the way the odds were going.

"Well, I'll bet them on paper,"
But I'm holding on to my money," she said, unwilling to be one of the majority who would have to lose. "Let's see, Dark Cloud, Mary's Boy, Scotch-and-Soda—Oh, I'll take that one. It ought to have plenty of kick."

The men had gone to place their bets with the cashiers, and Ellen and Marcia gossiped pleasantly while they watched the high spirited horses being coaxed into the stalls of the mechanical starting gate.

"There they go!" In a loud and thrilling voice the announcer reported the beginning of the race, and Tony and Walt joined the girls just in time to see the thoroughbreds race past their box, a flying streak of color followed by the tumultuous yells of the spectators. As first one horse then another took the lead, she heard spectators jump up and down and yell the name of their mount into the blue sky. "They're coming down the stretch, it's going to be a driving finish—it's Armetta ahead, now Alsace. And here comes Scotch-and-Soda on the outside, and he WINS! Wins by a length!"

Walt disgustedly tore his tickets in two. "Well, there's $25 nicely dropped. They'll have to get the searchlight to guide my horse in."
With a scowl he consulted the chart for the next race entries, then looked up as the crowds acclaimed a big pay-off recorded on the tote board. Sixty-three dollars rewarded the backers of Scotch-and-Soda.

"Why, Marcia, isn't that the horse you picked?"
Walt whirled around, demanded,
"Why didn't you tell me about that horse? You knew I was betting this race. Where's your ticket, I'll collect for you."

"I only picked him, I didn't put any money on him," she said almost apologetically.

"Well, of all that," he began, then shrugged. "The next three races were equally disastrous for Walt, although Tony had one winner. Twice Marcia had mentioned a choice, and one had proved a winner, the other came in second."

On the seventh race Walt played $5 across the board on Hotwater, a 5 to 1 favorite, and nervously suggested they go into the clubhouse for a drink while the race was run. "It's my last $5, and I don't want to see that mare run out on me."

At the bar Tony figured up his losses at $12 and Ellen was ahead $2.60 after one winner. Marcia still laughingly refused to be a part of the gambling circle, claiming it was too hard on the nerves.

"I'd just as soon draw my money
—with a pencil."

Walt was nervous, anxious to get back and find the results of the race, when a noisy crowd of people came in.

"Did Hot Water win?" Walt called excitedly. "Yes, by a whisker," came the answer.
Walt sank back with relief, but in a moment was off to collect his winnings. Marcia thought she had never seen a man so intent on money and wondered why he gambled if he couldn't afford to lose with better grace.

"Here he comes, waving a hand full of bills," laughed Tony, his hand still cupped over Ellen's.
"Looks as if you're a winner this time, boy."

Walt came back, and with a grin admitted, "Eighty-nine dollars worth. That puts me practically even with the board."
"Do you mean to say you'd lost $90?" Marcia asked.

"Yes, but look here Marcia

You've been lucky picking winners. I'm going to give you the lot to bet in this last race for me."

"No, you're not. I won't have it," she looked away. "I—I haven't an idea who's going to win this one. No—"

"I heard you tell Ellen you had a choice in this race, you can't get out of it. Even Tony here admits women are dynamite picking winners. You put a dollar of your own with it for luck, and you'll win. I'll give you half of the pay-off." With that gambler's spirit, Walt was trying to push his luck on the strength of Marcia's peculiar good fortune.

"Sure, if he's willing to take a chance, what can you lose?" Tony urged her, entering into the spirit. Even Ellen got excited and urged her to do it, "for a lark."

Marcia looked hesitantly at her racing form. Red Sunset was the horse she'd chosen, for no other reason than the beautiful red sides on that afternoon when Sandy had first proposed.

"Well, but if I lose—"
"You won't, if you place the bet with your own hands," he said, superstitiously. "Here's the money,
now hurry. Red Sunset, eh? Well, that's good enough for me!"

In somewhat of a daze, Marcia walked toward the betting windows. Once upon the "win" window, she backed away. No, she couldn't risk so much. Maybe she should choose him to place, or to come third? In a panic she walked to a quiet corner, tried to deliberate what to do. Should she face the possibility of losing Walt's money, when he was obviously so avaricious? No, she didn't dare. Besides, the horse was quite long shot; probably hadn't a chance. Resolutely, she pocketed the money, and determined to give it back to Walt as soon as she reached his side.

But the race had started before she edged into the box. Walt disregarded her gentle tug on his coat sleeve. "There they go around the turn. Where's Red Sunset? Son-of-a-gun—oh, there he comes!"

"I didn't—" Marcia started to tell him she hadn't bet, but he gave her no chance. "He's on the outside gaining like the devil.
Look at that baby run. Boy, o-boy!" Then he gave an earsplitting yell, "Come on, Red Sunset!"

Marcia began to feel faint as she saw Red Sunset gain on the field. What if he should win? He wouldn't, he couldn't—but he DID!
"We've done it, we've done it.
Oh, Marcia!" the man lifted her bodily from her feet, and whirled her about in delicious excitement.
"Boy, was that a hunch, to let you pick 'em. Why, what's the matter?"

Marcia slumped down on the chair, black waves of nausea blinding her. In a for she heard someone scream, "Red Sunset pays $26.20 to win, and with lightening clarity she figured that those odds of 13 to 1 would have increased Walt's $90 to well over a thousand!

"I—I didn't bet your money,
Walt. I was afraid to risk it, honestly I was," she said weakly
when she could get her breath.
For a minute she thought he was going to strike her, so great was his disappointment. "Here, here's your $89—" she fumbled wildly in her purse. Gone! Frantically, she turned the contents of her bag upside down, went over each item.
"It's gone. Somebody must have picked my pocket. Oh, Walt—" and frightened tears burned her eyes.

"So, that's the way of it. You didn't bet it and yet you don't have it. You kidding me, Marcia?
Hand me those tickets!"

DIET AND HEALTH

Ice Cream Good Food, Especially in Summer

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

"MY CHILDREN are very fond of ice cream, especially in the summer, but I am wondering whether it will cause indigestion in later life if they eat too much of it."

There was for a long time a prejudice against ice cream, and still is in certain places in Europe, where it is regarded as an outlandish American dish, but I thought in this country that prejudice was all over. It is, as a matter of fact, a splendid dish, especially in the summer time.

Dr. McCollum, the eminent specialist in nutrition at Johns Hopkins hospital, says: "There are many mothers who testify that their children dislike milk as a beverage and ask how it is possible for them to introduce a sufficient amount of dairy products into their diet. One of the answers to this question is ice cream. Almost without exception people of all ages like it."

Dr. James Tobey says that ice cream is frozen heat. The first ice cream sold west of the Alleghenies was sold in Daniel Drake's drug store in Cincinnati.
Daniel Drake was one of the most eminent medical pioneers in the Middle West.

It is said that in France in 1774
the Duc de Chartres was served a delectable cream ice with the dual coat of arms sculptured on it.
Whether this was ice cream or not,
we do not know. We do know,
however, that in the United States, on May 12, 1777, there appeared in the New York Gazette and Weekly Mercury an advertisement to the effect that "Ice cream may be had almost any day at No. 517 Hanover square in New York."

Another advertisement in the Post Boy for June 8, 1786, stated that ice cream was obtainable daily from Joseph Crowe, "your humble servant at his City Tavern in New York."

Dolly Madison served ice cream
at a White House dinner in 1809, although Mrs. Alexander Hamilton is said to have been the first hostess in the national capital to offer this delicacy to her guests.

Ice cream is quite a complete food. It contains protein, fat and carbohydrate, as well as vitamins and minerals. It is especially rich in lime. A half pint of ice cream contains as much lime as one and a half pounds of bread. Ice cream contains anywhere from 700 to 1,200 calories a pound, depending on whether milk or cream is used in its manufacture.

The natural affinity which young people have for ice cream in the summer time is easily explained.
Athletes have always known that they had to replace their energy with carbohydrates, and ice cream contains these in the simplest form.

LOW COST, HIGH WAGE FORMULA

HOW to satisfy both employes and customers, the one with higher wages and the other with reasonable prices, is the subject of an editorial in the American Builder for June, which recommends to business men, large and small, what it believes to be the only policy that can remedy the present discontent of the masses which is promoting government and labor union attacks on all business threatening the destruction of the system of private enterprise.

"Why business men?" this analysis asks. "Because politicians and labor leaders are engaging more and more in competition with business men for the favor of both their employes and customers. In order to survive and succeed business men must meet every kind of competition, including this. Either they will meet it, or politicians and labor leaders will in future run business — and when they run it there won't be any efficiency or profits in it."
"Business can satisfy its customers—who include everybody — only by providing them increasing amounts of goods and services that they want at prices that they can and willingly pay. They are the market, and no company or industry can afford to dictate to its market. Buyers can, and often do, strike; and when they strike there are depressions, unemployment for labor and losses for business."

"Apparently the principal competition to which the management of industry is subject at present is for the favor and co-operation of its employes. Consequently, many advances in hourly wages are being granted. But any advance in hourly wages in excess of the advance in hourly output per employe increases operating costs, and therefore either curtails profits or necessitates advances in prices that customers must pay."

"There is only one means by which, even temporarily, to satisfy both employes and customers. This is to acquire and use improved machinery and adopt improved methods that will increase average output per employe per hour. Only by this means can production costs be kept down in spite of advances in hourly wages; and only by keeping down production costs can profits be made while charging prices that will satisfy customers."

"For any industry or all industries merely to raise hourly wages will not solve present economic and social problems. The direct and indirect customers of every industry are much more numerous than its wage earners, because a large part of the buying public—farmers, for example—do not work for wages, and, therefore, may be injured, by advances in them."

"Its customers, not its employes, are the most important problem of every industry. Only satisfied customers will provide business that will afford the workers of any industry with good jobs and its owners with good or any profits."

U. S. SHOULD CONDEMN ALMERIA
WASHINGTON — Inner council discussions about the European crisis have shown the President to be much more critical of the Germans and the Italians than his State Department advisers.

But Cordell Hull and Norman Davis were the height of caution. They believed that the United States should do nothing. Davis, particularly, believed in a do-nothing policy, especially anything which did not follow the leadership of the British.

In conversations with the German Ambassador, Mr. Hull intimated in mild diplomatic language that any repetition of the Almeria incident might force the United States to take action under the Neutrality Act.

Ambassador Dieckhoff cabled this to Hitler; no word of it leaked out to the German public.

HULL ON SPOT

Secretary Hull, always the height of cautious graciousness, had a hard time maintaining it during the visit of Democratic and Farmer-Labor Congressmen to demand the invocation of the Neutrality Act against Germany and Italy.

Hull can be one of the most long-winded talkers in the world when he wants to avoid an issue. This time he talked about fishing, Tennessee, the days when he was in Congress, and almost everything else in order to avoid the Spanish question.

"I've always got my transom open for you boys to crawl through," he said; "glad to see you anytime."

Finally Congressman O'Connell of Montana suggested that they didn't want to waste the Secretary of State's time with pleasantries.

"I'm always glad to take time to talk to you," replied Hull.

"But we're rather busy," was the reply. Whereupon they finally got down to the subject of Spain. The delegation maintained that the bombardment of Almeria was an act of war and that the United States should declare an arms embargo against Germany and Italy.

"You're just taking sides in a factional dispute," Hull replied. "I can't afford to do that. I'm likely to have another delegation down here tomorrow, claiming that all of you should be jailed. I can't side with one faction or the other."

"Norman Thomas came in to see me the other day and compared helping the Spaniards to the help Lafayette had given the colonies in the Revolution, and I asked him if he was going to go over and be another Lafayette."

MERRY-GO-ROUND

To North Carolina's veteran Lindsay Warren and Pennsylvania's first-term Robert G. Allen is due a good share of the credit for the President's final victory in the House on the $1,500,000,000 relief bill. Their calm, dispassionate speeches did much to quell the spirit of revolt...

to learn this fundamental economic fact. Many managers of business apparently need just now to be reminded of it."

J. Edgar Hoover, chief of the G-men, cites parole as America's leading crime menace. It seems that so many of the poor dear convicts aren't a bit grateful when they get out of jail.

This Spring is most disappointing, being entirely lacking so far in that most essential factor—the proper temperature conducive to the ennui that makes Spring fever such a delightful malady.

'ROUND CIRCLEVILLE . . Hour by Hour

PAGES from the Diary of an Antiquated Reporter:

Up and about the ville at an early hour, visiting the cannery to see farmers delivering at fine a pea crop as has been seen in these parts in many a year. Found the post deserted and few on the streets in the business district.

Met C. C. McCafferty, the retired school teacher, who has spent most of his 87 years in the county and who now lives in the Grange Hall district of Monroe township. We drew the Adkins family from that region. The former educator was in the ville on business. Wonder what most of us will look like at 87? It is safe to say that few of us will be as bright and active as Mr. McCafferty.

Chatted with Charles Bell, of N. Court street, and read a newspaper clipping sent by his son Ralph, who is in the state of Washington. Ralph and a friend pulled 20 Black Montana and Cutthroat trout out of Lake Merrill in an afternoon and made first page of the newspapers. Noted that Frank Lynch has filed for councilman at large and do join with his many friends in predicting an overwhelming vote for him. Have yet to meet a man who is not a friend of Frank.

There goes Ed Wallace, who has promised to join the Northern Michigan outing party leaving the last of next week. Bud Harden will pilot the first section and Guy Pettit and party will take off a week later. Bowed to Ben Gordon and passed the time of day with Tom Brunner. Here comes Wallace Crist and there goes Ed Mason, two names associated in the early business history of the ville.

In the afternoon did take a golf lesson from Doc Phillips and Mack Mader, the first trip of the season to pasture. One never should play golf with a dentist. On every green Doc would line up his putt, tell the cup to "open wider, please," and then drop the ball into what looked like a washtub. Before my time to putt arrived reaction had set in and the cup not only was closed, it was puckered. On several occasions I thought I heard Bronx cheers, but from those distances it was difficult to be certain. Harold Grant also was an also ran in the foursome, almost proving what he contended for a long time — that he plays worse golf than the scrivener. But every thing ended all even and no hit changed hands.

The little girl next door has what she calls the "bumps." And she is unable to understand why they delayed appearance until after the close of school.

Love is for Tomorrow
By VIRGINIA SCALLON
RELEASED BY CENTRAL PRESS ASSOCIATION

READ THIS FIRST:

Sandy and Marcia had met quite by accident near the home of the girl's grandmother in southern California. He is an advertising executive who has just established his own firm and she is a talented commercial artist employed by a rival firm in Los Angeles. After a week they fall in love. When Marcia shows so much enthusiasm for her work that Sandy feels her love for him is secondary, they part in a huff and return to Los Angeles separately. Marcia is disappointed to find that one of the men who has been the new partner. Although Marcia had sent Paula Stoddard, an art student, to Sandy for a job, she becomes jealous when Sandy hires the girl, Hartley, whom Marcia has been seeing occasionally. Largely out of spite for Sandy, persuades her to join her friend, Ellen and his friend, Tony, at a night club.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY:

CHAPTER 17

MARCIA was at a loss to understand why she'd agreed to go to Santa Anita with Walt, Ellen and Tony. She tried to excuse her weakness by thinking she owed it to Ellen not to spoil the party, but realized it had been no more than a compromise gesture to keep Walt from making a scene at the Grove the night before.

As they fought the crowds driving along the wide boulevards to the races, Marcia caught a glimpse of the magnificent plant, nesting at the foot of the hills. Turning in the vast parkway, they left their car with several thousand others and walked eagerly toward the tremendous pink-tinted grandstand and clubhouse. The enthusiasm of the crowd about them was contagious, and already Marcia caught hurried mention of a "tip on the third race, sure thing"—"bet on Martel in the fifth"—"Black Knight's a long shot due to come in."

As they left the motley throng and headed for the more aristocratic clubhouse she felt a quickening of the pulse. Beautiful women, lavishly costumed; handsome men casually wearing sportswear worthy of the Sunday rotogravure. She turned to Walt, and was surprised at his intonement.

He was saying to Tony: "Tony, I've got to win today. Last week was disastrous, but I think I can pick a few winners out of today's entries. Have you any tips?"

"Couldn't say, Walt. These days there are more tips than there are horses in the races. Everybody knows the lucky or the owner or the horse, personally. Me, I think a woman's intuition is as good as anything else."

Marcia preferred Tony's sporting attitude rather than Walt's greedy concentration on winning. Once in the clubhouse and seated in their box, the girls looked about.

"Look, there's that Lilli Bronte again. Remember her Marcia? She was at—, well look, she's with Lena von Brecht here too. Did you ever see such clothes?"

Marcia followed her gaze and nodded. "Her regular routine of men, too," she said noncommittally. Eagerly she scanned the boxes and recognized women whose faces were consistently reproduced on society and movie pages, parading like peacocks in their brilliant plumage.

"Look here," Tony told them. "We came here to watch those things down on the track, not these clothes horses. Here's a racing form, Marcia. Let's see you pick a winner."

"Oh, I'm not betting," she said quickly.

"At the races and not betting? Come, now Marcia," he objected. "That's like going to a show and shutting your eyes, or ordering a lemonade at the most famous bar in town. Get into the spirit of the thing," he insisted.

Following his glance, she looked down at the tote board in front of the grandstand, and was amazed at the total amount of the bets already placed on this first race... $59,000, and the crowd was just beginning to bet as they saw the way the odds were going.

"Well, I'll pick them on paper," she said, unwilling to be one of the majority who would have to lose. "Let's see, Dark Cloud, Mary's Boy, Scotch-and-Soda—Oh, I'll take that one. It ought to have plenty of kick."

The men had gone to place their bets with the cashiers, and Ellen and Marcia gossiped pleasantly while they watched the high spirited horses being coaxed into the stalls of the mechanical starting gate.

"There they go!" In a loud and thrilling voice the announcer reported the beginning of the race, and Tony and Walt joined the girls just in time to see the thoroughbreds race past their box, a flying streak of colors, followed by the tumultuous yells of the spectators. As first one horse then another took the lead, she heard spectators jump up and down and yell the name of their mount into the blue sky. "They're coming down the stretch, it's going to be a driving finish—it's Armetta ahead, now Alsace. And here comes Scotch-and-Soda on the outside, and he WINS! Wins by a length!"

Walt disgustfully tore his tickets in two. "Well, there's $25 nicely dropped. They'll have to get the searchlight to guide my horse in." With a scowl he consulted the chart for the next race entries, then looked up as the crowds acclaimed a big pay-off recorded on the tote board. Sixty-three dollars rewarded the backers of Scotch-and-Soda.

"Why Marcia, isn't that the horse you picked?" Walt whistled around, demanded, "Why didn't you tell me about that horse? You knew I was betting this race. Where's your ticket, I'll collect for you."

"I only picked him, I didn't put any money on him," she said almost apologetically.

"Well, of all the—," he began, then shrugged. The next three races were equally disastrous for Walt, although Tony had one winner. Twice Marcia had mentioned a choice and one had proved a winner, the seventh race Walt played $5 across the board on Hotwater, a 5 to 1 favorite, and nervously suggested they go into the clubhouse for a drink while the race was run. "It's my last $5, and I don't want to see that mare run out on me."

At the bar Tony figured up his losses at $12 and Ellen was ahead $2.60 after one winner. Marcia still laughingly refused to be a part of the gambling circle, claiming it was too hard on the nerves. "I'd just as soon draw my money—with a pencil."

Walt was nervous, anxious to get back and find the results of the race, when a noisy crowd of people came in. "Did Hot Water win?" Walt called excitedly. "Yes, by a whisker," came the answer.

Walt sank back with relief, but in a moment was off to collect his winnings. Marcia thought she had never seen a man so intent on money and wondered why he gambled if he couldn't afford to lose with better grace.

"Here he comes, waving a hand full of bills," laughed Tony, his hand still cupped over Ellen's. "Looks as if you're a winner this time, boy."

Walt came back, and with a grin admitted, "Eighty-nine dollars' worth. That puts me practically even with the board."

"Do you mean to say you'd lost $90?" Marcia asked.

"Yes, but look here Marcia."

You've been lucky picking winners. I'm going to give you the lot to bet in this last race for me."

"No, you're not. I won't have it," she looked away. "I haven't an idea who's going to win this one. No—"

"I heard you tell Ellen you had a choice in this race, you can't get out of it. Even Tony here admits women are dynamite picking winners. You put a dollar of your own with it for luck, and let's ride a winner. I'll give you half of the pay-off." With true gambler's spirit, Walt was trying to push his luck on the strength of Marcia's peculiar good fortune.

"Sure, if he's willing to take a chance, what can you lose?" Tony urged her, entering into the spirit. Even Ellen got excited and urged her to do it "for a lark."

Marcia looked hesitantly at her racing form. Red Sunset was the horse she'd chosen, for no other reason than the beautiful red skies on that afternoon when Sandy had first proposed.

"Well, but if I lose—"

"You won't, if you place the bet with your own hands," he said, superstitiously. "Here's the money, now hurry. Red Sunset, eh? Well, that's good enough for me!"

In somewhat of a daze, Marcia walked toward the betting windows. Once up to the "win" window, she backed away. No, she couldn't risk so much. Maybe she should choose him to place, or to come third? In a panic she walked to a quiet corner, tried to deliberate what to do. Should she face the possibility of losing Walt's money, when he was obviously so avaricious? No, she didn't dare. Besides, the horse was quite a long shot; probably hadn't a chance. Resolutely, she pocketed the money, and determined to give it back to Walt as soon as she reached his side.

But the race had started before she edged into the box. Walt disregarded her gentle tug on his coat sleeve. "There they go around the turn. Where's Red Sunset? Son-of-a-gun—oh, there he comes!"

"I didn't—," Marcia started to tell him she hadn't bet, but he gave her no chance. "He's on the outside gaining like the devil. Look at that baby run. Boy, o-boy!" Then he gave an ear-splitting yell, "Come on, Red Sunset!"

Marcia began to feel faint as she saw Red Sunset gain on the field. What if he should win? He wouldn't, he couldn't—but he DID! "We've done it, we've done it. Oh, Marcia!" the man lifted her bodily from her feet, and whirled her about in delirious excitement. "Boy, was that a hunch, to let you pick 'em. Why, what's the matter?"

Marcia slumped down on the chair, black waves of nausea blinding her. In a fog she heard someone scream, "Red Sunset pays $26.20 to win," and with lightning clarity she figured that those odds of 13 to 1 would have increased Walt's $90 to well over a thousand!

"I—I didn't bet your money, Walt. I was afraid to risk it, honestly I was," she said weakly when she could get her breath. For a minute she thought he was going to strike her, so great was his disappointment. "Here, here's your $89—" she fumbled wildly in her purse. Gone! Frantically, she turned the contents of her bag upside down, went over each item. "It's gone. Somebody must have picked my pocket. Oh, Walt—," and frightened tears burned her eyes.

"So, that's the way of it. You didn't bet it, and yet you don't have it. You kidding me, Marcia? Hand me those tickets!" (To Be Continued)

Ice Cream Good Food, Especially in Summer

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.
"MY CHILDREN are very fond of ice cream, especially in the summer, but I am wondering whether it will cause indigestion in later life if they eat too much of it."

Dr. Clendenning

There was for a long time a prejudice against ice cream, and still is in certain places in Europe, where it is regarded as an outlandish American dish, but I thought in this country that prejudice was all over. It is, as a matter of fact, a splendid food, especially in the summer time.

Dr. McCollum, the eminent specialist in nutrition at Johns Hopkins hospital, says: "There are many mothers who testify that their children dislike milk as a beverage and ask how it is possible for them to introduce a sufficient amount of dairy products into their diet. One of the answers to this question is ice cream. Almost without exception people of all ages like it."

Dr. James Tobey says that ice cream is frozen heat. It is a truly American dish. The first ice cream sold west of the Alleghenies was sold in Daniel Drake's drug store in Cincinnati. Daniel Drake was one of the most eminent medical pioneers in the Middle West. It is said that in France in 1774 the Duc de Chartres was served a delectable cream ice with the dual coat of arms sculptured on it. Whether this was ice cream or not, we do not know. We do know, however, that in the United States, on May 12, 1777, there appeared in the New York Gazette and Weekly Mercury an advertisement to the effect that "Ice cream may be had almost any day at No. 517 Hanover square in New York."

Another advertisement in the Post Boy for June 8, 1786, stated that ice cream was obtainable daily from Joseph Crowe, "your humble servant at his City Tavern in New York."

Dolly Madison served ice cream at a White House dinner in 1809, although Mrs. Alexander Hamilton is said to have been the first hostess in the national capital to offer this delicacy to her guests.

Ice cream is quite a complete food. It contains protein, fat and carbohydrate, as well as vitamins and minerals. It is especially rich in lime. A half pint of ice cream contains as much lime as one and a half pounds of bread. Ice cream contains anywhere from 700 to 1,200 calories a pound, depending on whether milk or cream is used in its manufacture.

The natural affinity which young people have for ice cream in the summer time is easily explained. Athletes have always known that they had to replace their energy with carbohydrates, and ice cream contains these in the simplest form.

WOMEN FOUND BEHIND MEN IN CARE OF FACES

NEW YORK, (UP)—By reputation women are the vain sex, but statistically, men outdo them two to one in the time devoted to regular care of the face and hair. At least this was uncovered by a survey of 1,000 men and 1,000 women by Nell Vinick, author of "Lessons in Loveliness."

"The average man studied spent ten minutes every morning shaving, washing his face thoroughly and brushing his hair," reported Miss Vinick. "The time for bachelors and married men was approximately the same. Sunday was the only day that any man interviewed slipped up on his schedule."

"The average woman interviewed did not brush her hair at all and contented herself with slipping a comb through the waves. She spent less than five minutes on cleaning her face and applying makeup. The majority of women admitted that they skipped the ritual of removing makeup thoroughly whenever they were tired."

Only when they were going somewhere "special" did the feminine allotment for beauty care run ahead of the regular masculine schedule. The longer the duration of the marriage, the less time the women interviewed spent on the care of their skin and hair, according to the survey. About 20 per cent of the women tried to make up for this lack of care by indulging in facials periodically.

"Nine out of ten women interviewed said that 'of course regularity was the secret of beauty care' and did not realize that they themselves had been neglectful," Miss Vinick reported.

167 PROFESSIONAL, AMATEUR GOLFERS TEE OFF FOR NATIONAL OPEN TITLE

UPSET THOUGHT CERTAIN IN BIG OAKLAND LINKS

Harry Cooper Reports Fine Sub-par Card of 70 in Practice Round

MANY STARS ON HAND

Narrow Fairways, Difficult Rough Feature 18 Holes

OAKLAND HILLS COUNTRY CLUB, BIRMINGHAM, Mich., June 10 — (UP) — A wide open chance for the championship of 167 pro and amateur golf stars as the National Open tournament started today.

No such thing as a favorite existed as the choice field began firing across the difficult course before the dew had even left the grass. The expert shots of some well-known pro may be well enough spotted over the three-day, 72-hole round to finish in front. On the other hand, some young upstart amateur with plenty of stamina may have what it takes in an accurate, short-striking game.

Course Favors psst

A punishing course such as the national golfing fathers sanctioned when they put their approval on this 7,037-yard layout is made for upsets. And that is exactly the way the veterans and youngsters felt about it as they took their places at No. 1 tee to start the quest for Tony Manero's title.

Looking at the tournament from the standpoint of sentimental favorites, there are about two dozen sharpshooters who command attention. Some of them have been bombarded for years, yet many of them have never won the open, golf's top-ranking event. The severity of this course was demonstrated, however, in practice round scores, some of which the better known entrants would hesitate to show their mothers.

Because there are narrow fairways, the slightest inaccuracy in tee shots will be painful. And

DIZZY RETURNS TO GOOD GRACES WITH FINE WORK

NEW YORK, June 10 — (UP) — The shifting fortunes of baseball tossed Jerome Herman (Dizzy) Dean back on top today. A few short days ago he was one of the most unpopular players in the game, hounded by fans, scribes and even high officials.

His unpopularity was emphasized when he warmed up yesterday in the first game of a double-header against the New York Giants. Most of the crowd of 55,577 booed him. They booed him when he walked to the mound, they razed him when he came to bat, they jeered him when he blazed over a fast ball.

But at the end the jeers turned to cheers. O' Ditz, tending strictly to business, carved out one of the masterpieces of his career. He held the Giants to three hits, allowed only four men to reach base and scored an 8-1 triumph over Carl Hubbell.

Cooper Under Par

Harry Cooper, the old Chicago lighthouse, served notice on one and all that he not only is the year's biggest money winner but definitely a challenger. He turned in a 70, two under par, in his final practice round. The lighthouse still has a score to settle from last year's Baltusrol, N. J., tournament, where he finished with record-breaking, championship figures, only to have Manero slide home from nowhere with a still better score.

The Italian crowded the works last year with 282 but the boys fail to see how a score better than 290 can be made this year. Some insist that Henry Picard, the Hershey, Pa., pro, can do it. Others are on the Cooper bandwagon and some are riding along with Byron Nelson, Reading, Pa., and Ralph Guldahl of St. Louis and Chicago.

There are valid reasons why Denny Shute, PGA champion for the last two years, could unseat Manero. And the judges of golfing ability would toss their dollars readily on Horton Smith, Jimmy Thompson, Al Watrous, Sammy Snead, Jug McSpaden, Paul Runyan or Johnny Revolta.

It will be the gent with the eagle eye, consistently sure-fire drives, well-placed approaches and a lot of putting ability who negotiates this course with a score low enough to grab the title. There are no set-ups at any turn, hence no favorites.

JOE LOUIS GOES BEFORE DOCTOR

Bomber To Be Examined To Determine Ability To Fight Champion

KENOSHA, Wis., June 10 — (UP) — An official physician cornered Joe Louis today to determine whether the husky bomber is a fit challenger for Jim Braddock's heavyweight title.

Louis had no marks to show for the automobile accident in which he was involved last night. However, many of his backers had begun to doubt Joe's condition after watching his indifferent workouts.

Louis and his manager, Julian Black, were riding in a car driven by the bomber's bodyguard, Carl Nelson, when it collided last night with a car driven by Davis E. Hamilton. Both cars were damaged, but none of the occupants was injured. Louis was shaky, and went to bed early to regain his composure.

Trainer Jack Blackburn insisted Louis will enter the ring at Chicago June 22 at the sharpest fighting edge of his cannonading career.

Chairman Joe Triner came along to witness the medical examination for the Illinois Athletic commission. Braddock, who hasn't fought for two years, sailed through his test with perfect marks last month.

COOPERS DEFEAT SOHIOANS TO TIE WITH YELLOWBUD

Cooper Oils, of Commercial Point, continued unbeaten in the County Recreation league, Thursday, by defeating the fast Sohio gasoline outfit, 6 to 1.

The Commercial Point team and Yellowbud will tangle Friday evening in a game that may determine the first half title of the league race. Neither team is beaten in league competition.

The Coopers drove out a run in the first inning of a double by C. Gulick and a single by B. Rush. The Sohios tied it in the third on Carl's two-master and Wilson's single, but the Coopers took the game in the fourth frame by counting five runs on six runs.

The Coca Colas and Kingston, two of the teams at the lower end of the standing, are scheduled for competition this evening.

VANDER MEER CHOSEN

BOSTON, June 10 — (UP) — The Cincinnati Reds sent Johnny Vander Meer against the Boston Bees today. He was expected to be opposed by Danny Mac Feyden, the Reds' nemesis.

RED KRESS HITS TWO HOME RUNS TO DEFEAT BIRDS

MINNEAPOLIS, June 10. — Columbus Red Birds were unable to devise a way to get Red Kress out, so they lost the opener of a series to the Kels Wednesday afternoon. The score was 10-7, the Miller infielders smacking his second home run of the day with two mates on the paths in the last half of the tenth inning.

Kress smacked two circuit clouts, a double and a single. Bill McGee, hurling the relief role after shutting out Milwaukee Tuesday night, was the victim of Kress's blow.

Johnny Rizzo was the Columbus star, hitting a home run and two singles.

About This And That In Many Sports

Lancaster Chooses Its Racing Dates

Now that Beulah Park is nearing the end of its racing season, the same operators are preparing for activity at Lancaster, June 26 to July 5 being selected as the dates - - - Beulah Park is going a long way toward paying all the debt created in its reconstruction program during the present meet, track visitors declare - - - We wonder if Jack Landrum took some footballs along on his trip to Hessel - - - Some of the boys with him will be doing a lot of work on the grid next fall - - - If this newly-formed light association gets busy, and right now, the high school field may be wearing blinkers for next fall's frays - - - The fedora's off to Dizzy Dean, of the big wind - - - Dizzy was in rare form Wednesday when he gave the Giants but three hits, defeating Hubbell - - - There's one statement the D made in the last week that brands him as pretty good guy at that - - - He said: "I don't mind pitching against Hubbell, because when you beat him you know you've done something."

* * * Cleveland Indians are in second place only 10 percentage points behind the Yankees and White Sox; just where would Cleveland be had Bob Feller's strong right arm not caused him trouble - - - the young 'feller' may be ready soon, and when he does start firing them through there, watch out for the Indians * * *

Yesterday a story was sent out that Cincinnati could climb out of the cellar by winning both games of a double header from the Bees; the no-longer-surprising Reds lost the pair and are now deeper entrenched in the coal hole - - - Hub Walker, Red outfielder, has a broken collarbone, received in making a diving catch of a liner off the bat of Elbie Fletcher; He's out for five weeks - - - A move is gaining headway for bleachers, and possibly lights at the Columbus and Southern Ohio Electric Co., Mound street field - - - The bleachers seem a certainty with contributions increasing, and power company officials seem interested in the light proposition - - - BUT how will flood waters from the Scioto be kept out of the park everytime it sprinkles - - - Clyde Cramer, former Ohio U. athlete, is the new head coach at Washington C. H. succeeding Fred Wampler - - - Cramer has been assistant for more than five years, and has done a good job, so the board has picked him - - - Cramer has not been very interested in the head mentor's job, being willing to go along, as assistant with not so much responsibility * * *

Mrs. Kenneth Brummage of Jersey City was one player who found the correct method to insure the first club trick. After winning the first club trick, she immediately led back a club to West, who returned a trump. After winning this in the South hand, she led a third club. West won this and returned another trump. The thirteenth club was now ruffed with the heart 9 in the dummy, which enabled her to take the diamond finesse. When this proved successful, her contract was assured.

Many suffered from 50 rounds of tear gas shells fired by deputy sheriffs. Fifteen men were held in the county jail. Sheriff Ralph E. Elser said they were strikers and sympathizers who had participated in the riot.

A bare two dozen pickets, braving a drenching rain, patrolled the entrances of the plant last night. The mill lies under the Market street bridge in the heart of the city and is reached by ramps and stairways.

A truck suddenly careened down the ramp, through the picket line and into the millyard. Pickets said it was loaded with food, either for the maintenance men inside or in preparation for a resumption of operations.

500 Under Bridge

The pickets said they heard that a second truck was en route. They called for reinforcements. By early today 500 strikers and sympathizers were milling around under the bridge, while leaders asked, shouting from stairways "shall we go get 'em?"

Detective Michael Flynn, in plain clothes, started down from the bridge to investigate. His scalp was split by a blow of a club. Patrolman Roy Welsh followed and was also beaten. Ralph Ross, whose occupation was not learned was shot in the leg.

Other policemen went into action with clubs. There was a free-for-all in the mud and cinders around the mill gates.

Responding to an emergency call, Sheriff Elser and 40 deputies raced down the ramp in two armored trucks.

According to Elser, two shots were fired at his men. The sheriff said they came when the deputies went into action with the gas that sent the strikers fleeing.

WOLF IS KILLED
AFTER SIX-YEAR
REIGN OF TERROR

ABITA, La. (UP)—Sheep in St. Tammany Parish graze peacefully these days and shepherds doze in the shade of big oak trees without fear of the marauding wolf that fed on their flocks for six years.

The howl of the big timber wolf from pine forests about the grazing meadows roused sheep owners of the parish to frequent organized hunts. At first the flock-raider was believed to be a wild German shepherd dog. Then one day the big wolf was seen near here by William Green of Abita Springs. Sheep carcasses were found with the tongues and hearts eaten out—positive evidence of a wolf, sheep men said.

Flock raiders, who estimated their losses to the one raider at 1,250 sheep in six years, finally called a meeting and decided to import Jack Forbes, professional wolf hunter, and his pack of wolf hounds from Sandy Hook, Miss.

Forbes' big hounds picked up the trail early one morning and hours later ran the wolf from its lair. Another hour and the 77-pound wolf stood at bay. Two of the dogs were badly lacerated by the wolf's slashing fangs before Forbes caught up with them and shot the wolf.
